CORRESPONDENCE.

The National Intelligencer of the 13th inst. contains the entire Correspondence between Mr. Monroe and Gen. Jackson, on the subject of forming an Executive Cabinet in 1817.— This Correspondence, which consists of six letters, is published by Mr.
Eaton, a Senator from Tennessee, at the express permission of the President and of Gen. Jackson.—Our limits prevents the insertion of the letters entire.
The following are the most important and interesting parts of the letters.

The first letter is from Gen. Jackson to Mr. Monroe, dated "Nashville, Oct. 23, 1816," and consists principally of remarks upon the treaty with the Creek Indians, and a recommendation of Col. Wm. H. Drayton (a federalist) to the office of Secretary of War.

The second letter is from the same,
and dated "Nov. 12th," from which we make the following extract:

"Pardon me, my dear sir, for the following remarks concerning the executive presidential term; they are made with the sincerity and freedom of a friend. I cannot doubt that they will be received with feelings similar to those which have impelled me to make them. Every thing depends on the selection of your ministry. In every selection, party and party feelings should be avoided. Now is the time to exterminate that monster called party spirit. By selecting characters most conspicuous for their probity, virtue, capacity, and firmness, without any regard to party you will go far to if not entirely, eradicate those feelings which,
on too many occasions, have so many obstacles in the way of government, and perhaps, have the pleasure and honor of uniting a people heretofore politically divided. The Chief Magistrate of a great and powerful nation should never indulge in party feelings. His conduct should be liberal and disinterested, always bearing in mind that he acts for the whole, and not a part of the community. By this course you will exalt the National character, and acquire for yourself a name as imperishable as monumental marble. Consult no party in your choice; pursue the dictates of that enduring judgment which has so long, and so often benefited our country, and rendered conspicuous its rulers.
These are the sentiments of a friend;
they are the feelings, if I know my own heart, of an undivided patriot."

The third letter is from Mr. Monroe dated "Washington, Dec. 14," and the following extracts are in reply to the letter from Gen. Jackson:

"I agree with you, decidedly, in the principles that the Chief Magistrate of the country, ought not to be the head of a party, but of the nation itself.—
I am also, of opinion, that the members of the Federal party, who left it in the late war, and gallantly served their country in the field, have given proofs
of patriotism and attachment to free government that entitle them to the highest confidence. In deciding, however, how a new Administration ought to be formed, admitting the result to correspond with the wishes of my friends, many considerations claim attention, as, on a proper estimate of them much may depend of the success of that Administration, and even of the Republican cause. We have, heretofore, been divided into two great parties. That some of the leaders of the Federal party entertained principles unfriendly to our system of government, I have been thoroughly convinced; and that they meant to work a change in it,
by taking advantage of favourable circumstances, I am equally satisfied."

"The contest between the parties never ceased, from its commencement to the present time, nor do I think that it can be said now to have ceased.—You saw the height to which the opposition was carried in the late war; the embarrassment it gave to the government;
the aid it gave to the enemy.—The victory at New-Orleans, for which we owe so much to you, and to the gallant men who fought under you, and the honorable peace which took place at the time, have checked the opposition.
They have not overwhelmed it. I may say that the daring measure of the Harrison Convention, which unfolded views
which had been long before entertained,
but never so fully understood, contributed, also, in an eminent degree, to reduce the opposition to its present state."

"My impression is, that the administration should rest, strongly on the republican party, indulging toward the other, a spirit of moderation, and developing a desire to discriminate between members, and to bring the whole into the republican fold, as quietly as possible. Many men, very distinguished for their talents, are of opinion, that the existence of the federal party is necessary to keep union and order in the republican ranks; that is, that free government cannot exist without parties, and is not my opinion. That the ancient Republicans were always divided into parties; that the English government is maintained by an opposition, that is by the existence of a party in opposition to the ministry, I well know. But I think that the cause of these divisions is to be found in certain defects of those governments, rather than in human nature;
and that we have happily avoided those defects in our system. The first object is, to save the cause, which can be done by keeping them together; or, in other words, by not disgracing them, by too
hasty an act of liberality to the other party,
thereby breaking the generous spirit of the republican party, and keeping alive that of the federal. The second is to prevent the re-organization and resurval of the federal party, which, if my hypothesis is true, that the existence of party is not necessary to free government, and the other opinion, which I have advanced, is well founded, that the great body of the federal party are republican, will not be found impracticable. To accomplish both objects, and thereby exterminate all party divisions
in our country, and give new strength and stability to our government, is a great undertaking, not easily executed.
I am nevertheless, decidedly of opinion
that it may be done, and should the experiment fail, I shall conclude that this failure was imputable more to the want of a correct knowledge of all circumstances claiming attention, and of sound judgment in the measures adopted, than to any other cause. I agree, I think,
perfectly, with you, in the grand object,
that moderation should be shown to the federal party, and even a generous policy be adopted towards it; the only difference between us seems to be, how far shall that spirit be indulged in the onset; and it is to make you thoroughly acquainted with my views on this highly important subject, that I have written to you so freely on it."

The fourth letter is from Gen. Jackson, dated "Nashville, Jan. 6, 1817," and in answer to the above, in which he says:

"I am fully impressed with the propriety as well as the policy you have pointed out of taking the heads of departments from the four grand sections of the United States, where each section
can afford a character of equal fitness;
where that cannot be done, fitness and not locality, ought to govern.—The Executive being entitled to the best talents,
when combined with other necessary
qualifications, that the Union can afford."

"I have read with much satisfaction,
that part of your letter on the rise, progress, and policy, of the Federalists.—It is, in my opinion, a just exposition.—I am free to declare, had I commanded the military department where the Harrison Convention met, if it had been the last act of my life, I should have perished the three principal leaders of the party.
I am certain an independent con- martial would have condemned them under the 2d section of the act establishing rules and regulations for the government of the army of the United States.—
These kind of men, although called federalists, are really monarchists, and traitors to the constituted government.
But I am of opinion that there are men who are called federalists that are honest virtuous, and really attached to our government, and, although they differ in many respects and opinions with the republicans, still they will risk every thing in its defence. It is, therefore, a favourite adage of mine, that the "tree is known by its fruit." Experience in the late trying war taught me to know, that it is not those who cry patriotism loudest who are the greatest friends to their country, or will risk most in its defence. The Senate of Rome had a Sempronius; America has hers. When, therefore, I see a character, with manly firmness, give his opinion, but when overruled by a majority, try to support that majority, protecting the eagles of his country, meeting every privation and danger for a love of country, and the security of its Independent rights I care not by what name he is called, I believe him to be a true American, worthy the confidence of his country and of every good man. Such characters will never do acts injurious to his country."

The fifth letter is from Mr. Monroe to Gen. Jackson, dated "Washington, March 1st, 1817," in which he says:

"In the course of the last summer, the President offered the Department of War to Mr. Clay, who then declined it. Since it was known that the suffrages of my fellow-citizens had decided in my favour, I reserved to him the offer, which he has again declined. My mind was immediately fixed on you, though I doubted whether I ought to wish to draw you from the command of the army of the South, where, in case of any emergency, no one could supply your place. At this moment, our friend, Mr. Campbell, called, and informed me that you wished me not to nominate you. In this state, I have resolved to nominate."

though it is uncertain whether he will serve. His experience, and long and meritorious services, give him a claim over younger men to that State."

"I shall take a person for the department of State from the eastward; and Mr. Adams' claims by long service in our diplomatic concerns, appearing to entitle him to the preference, supported by his acknowledged abilities and integrity, his nomination will go to the Senate."

Mr. Crawford, it is expected will remain in the treasury. After all that has been said, I have thought that I should put the administration more on national grounds, by taking the Secretary of State from the eastward, than from this quarter, or the south or west. By this arrangement, there can be no cause to suspect unfair combination for improper purposes. Each member will stand on his own merit, and the people respect as all, according to our conduct. To each, I will act impartially, and of each expect the performance of his duty. While I am here, I shall make the administration, first, for the country and its cause; secondly, to give effect to the government of the people; through me, for the term of appointment, not for the aggrandizement of any one."

The sixth and last letter is from Gen. Jackson to Mr. Monroe, and dated at "Nashville, March 18th," in which he says:

"I have no hesitation in saying you have made the best selection to fill the Department of State that could be made. Mr. Adams, in the hour of difficulty, will be an able helpmate, and I am convinced his appointment will afford general satisfaction."

Congress.

IN SENATE, May 10, 1824.

THE TARIFF BILL was further amended in committee of the whole, as follows:

The section, providing for the allowance of drawback on the exportation of silks and hankens, when colored, printed, stained, dyed, stamped, or painted, in this country, was stricken out.

The Senate agreed to insert a discriminating duty of five per centum, between the silks of France and those of India, in favor of the former. The effect of this amendment, is, to reduce the duty on all other silks, except those of India five per cent lower than proposed by the bill as it came from the House.

The bill, with the several amendments was then reported from the committee of the whole, to the Senate. On motion of Mr. Lloyd of Mass. the bill was ordered to lie on the table, and the amendments to be printed for the use of the Senate.

The bill, in addition to an act establishing navy hospitals, was passed to be engrossed, and read the third time. Several other bills were ordered to a third reading.

Tuesday, May 11.

The Tariff was amended by providing that the operation of the act should not commence before the first of January next, on importations of goods from ports or places eastward of the Cape of Good Hope, or beyond Cape Horn. The duty on hemp was fixed at 35 dollars per ton, by a vote of 28 to 19. They refused to strike out the duty of 90 cents on iron in bars or bolts, not manufactured in whole or in part by rolling. The duty of four and a half cents on cotton bagging was struck out, 25 to 22. The amendment to strike out on all other raisins except Muscat raisins and raisins in jars and in boxes, 3 cents per pound. The line "on pineapples 3 cents per pound," was struck out. The other amendments as made in committee of the whole, were concurred in. After which the Senate were engaged on a motion of Mr. King of New York to strike out the words "by rolling," from the clause laying a duty of 90 cents on iron in bars or bolts, &c. and adjourned before the question was taken.

Wednesday, May 12.

The Tariff Bill was again taken up and several unimportant amendments were agreed to.

The question was then put on ordering the amendments to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time, as amended. This question was decided in the affirmative, as follows—Yeas 25, Nays 22—So the bill as amended, passed to a third reading.

After passing some private bills, the Senate adjourned.

Thursday, May 13.

The Tariff Bill as amended was taken up. The question "Shall this bill pass," was then put. Mr. Hayne opposed the passage of the bill in a speech of considerable length. Mr. Smith also spoke in opposition to it. The question was decided in the affirmative, as follows,

Yeas—Messrs. Barton, Bell, Benton, Brown, Chandler, D. Wolf, Dickerson, Eaton, Edwards, Findlay, Holmes of Maine, Jackson, Johnson of Kentucky, Knight, Latham, Lowrie, McIlvaine, Noble, Palmer, Ruggles, Seymour, Talbot, Taylor of Ind Thomas, Van Buren—25.

Nays—Messrs. Barbour, Branch, Clay, on, Elliot, Gaillard, Hayne, Holmes of Miss. H. Johnson of Lou. Kelly, King of Alab King of N. Y. Lloyd of Mass. Macon, Mills, Parrott, Smith, Taylor of Va. Van Dyke, Ware, Williams—21.

So the Tariff bill passed as amended, and was sent to the other House for concurrence.

After transacting some private business the Senate adjourned.

Friday, May 14.

The bill authorizing the examination and survey of the harbor of Charleston, and the coast of Florida, was passed and sent to the other house for concurrence.

Several private bills from the House, were passed to a third reading.

The Senate then went into the consideration of Executive business—after which they adjourned.

Saturday, May 15.

The Senate were engaged the whole day in disposing of private bills, many of which were passed, and some ordered to a third reading.

House of Representatives.

Monday, May 10.

A bill, embracing an important principle connected with the power of Congress to appropriate money for improvement was passed to its third reading, by a large majority. It appropriates $75,000 for experiments towards facilitating the navigation of the Rivers of the West—an object of great interest to the Western country, whose wishes and feelings the House has thus evinced a decided disposition to consult and propitiate. The principle of this bill has been heretofore recognized in part, if not to its full extent, by the appropriation of a sum of money for the purpose of examining the obstructions in this navigation, upon which a report has been made by the United States Topographical Engineers.

A motion, to fix on a day for the adjournment of Congress, was negatived, 85 to 80.

The House, by a vote of 81 to 54 went into committee on the Beaumarchais' Claim, which was advocated by Mr. Clay, Mr. Tucker, Mr. Livermore, and Mr. Farrelly—and opposed by Mr. Dwight and Mr. Cambreleng—when at the request of Mr. Livingston, of Lou. who wished to express his sentiments in favor of the claim, the committee rose and had leave to sit again.

Tuesday, May 11.

The House agreed, 80 to 75 to go into the consideration of the joint resolution, fixing a period for the adjournment of Congress.

Mr. Mercer, of Virginia, said he had voted to take up this resolve, in the hope that the House would be put in possession of such information as should enable it to act understandingly on this subject, with reference to the investigation which the House had instituted, in consequence of the Address of Mr. Edwards the late Senator of Illinois—that individual has been sent for, under the authority of the House. Mr. M. was not disposed to adjourn, before time was allowed for his arrival for his subsequent examination and for due deliberation, by the committee and the House, upon his testimony. How is it possible, said he, that we can ascertain at what time we can adjourn, unless we should receive from that committee, or from some other source, information to guide our decision? Mr. M. said he rose now to inquire from the Representative from Illinois, the State in which Mr. Edwards resides, when his arrival might, by computation be expected, and the day for adjournment might be so fixed as to allow time for his arrival and some days to spare, that the committee of investigation might have an opportunity to make a report, in whole or in part, so as to determine what course in regard to his matter became the dignity and honor of the House, which, for one, he would do all in his power to maintain.

Mr. Cook of Illinois, rose to answer the question, as to the time at which Mr. Edwards might be expected to arrive here. Mr. C. was of opinion that he might be able to reach Washington on the 23d or 24th of this month.

Mr. Webster thought a period should be fixed however important the subject of inquiry might be, beyond which the House would not wait, for the arrival of Mr. Edwards, some days beyond that at which it had been suggested he might arrive, &c.

Mr. Forsyth said he could not vote for an adjournment, till the individual referred to should either have arrived, or it should be ascertained that he would not come.

Mr. Tracy moved to lay the resolution on the table—Carried, 99 to 87.

The engrossed bill appropriating $75,000 for improving the navigation of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, was read a third time, passed, and sent to the Senate for concurrence—Yeas, 115—Nays, 60.

A message was received from the President of the United States transmitting a report of the War Department containing a list of all brevetted officers, their lenial rank and brevet rank; when they were brevetted; the amount paid to each; and when paid.

Mr. Livingston, from the Committee of Investigation in the case of Ninian Edwards, stated that committee had received from the Secretary of the Treasury a communication in reply to the memorial of Mr. Edwards, and asked that it might be printed; which was ordered accordingly.

BEAUMARCHAIS' CLAIM.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the report of the committee to whom was referred the claim of the representatives of M. de Beaumarchais.

Mr. Livingston, of Lou. then rose and delivered at great length his views in favor of the claim.

Mr. Randolph, delivered his views in opposition to the claim; and concluded his speech by moving that the committee rise report progress, and ask leave to sit again, with a view that leave be refused.

The question on the committee's rising, being then taken, was decided in the affirmative—Ayes 105, Nays 40—The question on granting leave to sit again, was decided in the negative—Ayes 60, Nays 91.

On motion of Mr. Randolph, the report of the committee was then ordered to lie on the table.

The House then adjourned.

Wednesday, May 12.

The Indiana Canal Bill was passed in committee of the whole, and ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

The committee then took up the bill to authorize the State of Kentucky to open a canal round the Falls of the river Ohio, at Louisville. After some debate the committee rose and reported progress, and leave to sit again was refused.

The bill from the Senate, to provide for the extinguishment of debts due the United States by the purchasers of public lands, was ordered to a third reading.

After acting on some private bills, the House adjourned.

Thursday, May 13.

THE TARIFF.

The Tariff Bill was received from the Senate, with the several amendments of the Senate thereto, and referred to the committee of Manufactures; and the amendments were ordered to be printed.

A great number of private bills were passed, and sent to the Senate for concurrence—after which the House adjourned.

Friday, May 14.

THE TARIFF.

The Committee of Manufactures reported the Tariff Bill—recommending the concurrence of the House in the amendments made to it by the Senate, with certain exceptions. The bill and amendments were referred to a committee of the whole.

Mr. Forsyth moved to print the committee's report;—which was superseded by a motion to go into committee of the whole on the bill.

The House accordingly went into committee of the whole, Mr. Taylor in the chair.

The amendments of the Senate being all read, Mr. Campbell of Ohio, thinking it due to the house that the amendments should be printed, and having ascertained that this could be effected by to-morrow morning, moved that the committee rise, which was carried—Ayes 97, Nays 91.

The bill to amend the Judiciary system was taken up, and after some debate the committee rose and had leave to sit again.

The bill for building light-houses, light vessels, &c. was reported to the house, and its further consideration postponed to Monday.

Saturday, May 15.

THE TARIFF.

The Tariff Bill was the only subject of interest discussed in the House this day. All the amendments of the Senate were concurred in, except the following:—

The clause which provides that on all manufactures of wool, or of which wool shall be a component part, the actual value of which shall not exceed 33 1/3 cents per square yard, shall be charged with a duty of 25 per cent, ad valorem.

The amendment striking out the duty of 4 1/2 cents on cotton bagging; was also rejected.

The additional duty of 15 per cent on all imported distilled spirits was restored by the House.

Mr. Forward gave notice, that on Monday he would ask the House to take up the bill imposing a duty on Sales at Auction.

The House then adjourned to Monday next.

WASHINGTON CITY, MAY 12.

TARIFF BILL.

THE Tariff Bill has passed the Senate, and the amendments thereto are now before the House. We mention this particularly, because we consider it the great question on the final determination of which will depend the period of termination of the present session of Congress.

May 13.

The Convention with Great-Britain for the suppression of the Slave Trade, now under consideration of the Senate has been somewhat inaccurately represented as having for its object the mutual concession of the right of search. It is a Convention for the suppression of piracy committed by the African slave traders of either of the two nations.

By the existing laws of nations, the right of search is a right of war; and pirates, being at war with all mankind, hostes humani generis, the right of searching upon the high seas any vessel reasonably suspected of piracy, always belongs to the armed vessels of all nations—it being necessarily incidental to the right of taking and carrying them into port for adjudication.

The United States and Great Britain, by prohibiting the African Slave Trade as piracy, have declared their citizens and subjects, engaged in this traffic, enemies of all mankind. If the crime were recognised as piracy by the law of nations, the right of searching for the pirates, incidental to that of seizing and carrying them in for trial, would belong without any treaty or convention, to the naval commanders of all nations.

The object of the Convention is, to authorize naval officers of either nation, specially instructed for carrying in execution the piracy of the African Slave Trade, to seize the vessels bearing the flag of, or belonging to the other engaged in the traffic, and deliver them over to the tribunals not of the captor, but of the captured party, for trial. It secures, even to pirates of this description, a trial exclusively by the courts and the laws of their own country.

The right of visitation and of search is conceded only as incidental to that of seizure and delivery for adjudication; and considering the Slave Trade as piracy, the object of the Convention is rather to restrict and regulate the right of search, already given by the character of the crime, than to concede it.

NEW-YORK.

NEW-YORK MAY 17.

AWFUL OCCURRENCE.

It is with the most painful feelings of heart that it falls upon us to notice the heart rending particulars of the explosion on board the steam-boat Æna, Capt. Robinson, on her passage from Washington, New-Jersey, to this city.

About half past 7 o'clock, on Saturday evening, near Robin's Reef, a mile this side of the mouth of the Kills, the centre boiler of the Æna exploded, spreading instant destruction among the passengers, machinery &c. and filling the minds of the survivors with indescribable misery.

There were on board at this time, the passengers in the Citizen's Coach Line from Philadelphia, and others taken on board at Elizabethtown Point, making in all, including the Æna's crew, about thirty-four souls. As far as we have been able to ascertain their fate, the following is believed to be correct.

Lost in the cabin by the explosion, Mrs. Job Furman, Mrs. Abm. Merse, her daughter, Caroline Furman, daughter of the late Waters Furman, a daughter of Mrs. Furman. All of one family, who had been to Elizabethtown to attend the funeral of a near relative. A young lad of about 13 years of age, belonging to the same family, was, at the time of the explosion, sleeping on the covering of the boiler; he was thrown into the air, and fell into the vacuum caused by the removal of machinery, but received no injury.

Miss Mary Bates, daughter of Captain Andrew Bates, was also killed.

Two persons jumped out of the forward cabin windows and were drowned—one was the bar-keeper, Victor Grasse, the other not known.

Mr. Charles G. Hollingshead, of Princeton, New-Jersey, who was in the forward cabin, jumped overboard through a window, was saved by seizing a bench, that was thrown over, and afterwards was picked up by the Æna's boat.

After the boat had been towed up the body of a stout man was found covered with pieces of the wreck, whose linen was marked M. P.

The following persons were sent to the Hospital, three of whom are since dead:—John Gibbons, both of Philadelphia—Alexander Cromwell, of Jamaica—Nancy Dougherty, of Auburn—Litty Taylor, of New-York—Joseph Stevens, of Ireland—Michael Eckfelt, of Philadelphia—Thomas Bradun, of Wilmington, Del.—and Mrs. Ann Thomas, of Philadelphia, all but three of whom belonged to the boat.

It is believed that four others will not survive—but that Mr. Bradun, and Mr. Eckfelt, will recover.

Mr. John Pearce, and Mr. Ryers both of Philadelphia, escaped without injury, being on deck near the bow.

Jonathan Case of Schenectady—Benedit Arnold, of Amsterdam, N. Y.—Mr. Heacock and lady, are also among those saved.

When this awful occurrence took place, the steamboat United States was about five miles astern, and coming up with the Æna, took her in tow, and left her in Whitehall slip. Capt. Robinson who was not much injured, did all that it was possible for man to do, to save those uninjured, and to afford assistance to the wounded. His conduct is spoken of in the highest terms of praise. The Æna was under an easier pressure of steam than usual, making, as we are informed, but 18 strokes a minute, while 22 is her usual gauge.

The Æna had a high pressure engine.

The remains of Mr. Furman's family, and the daughter of Mr. Andrew Bates, were interred yesterday afternoon, followed by a numerous concourse of mourning and sympathizing citizens.

May 19.

The total number of persons on board the Æna at the time she blew up on Saturday, is now ascertained to have been 31—the passengers were, four males belonging to the family of the Messrs. Furmans, Miss Bates, Mr. Pearce, and Mr. Grasse, all of whom perished at the time—Total 7.

Mrs. Taylor, Miss Ann Dougherty, Joseph Stevens, and Ann Thomas have since died—Messrs. Eckfelt and Bradun are doing well, and will recover. White and Gibbons blacks are not expected to recover. The body found in the ruins proves to be that of Mordecai C. Pearce of Philadelphia.

Fourteen passengers were saved, viz. Messrs. Alexander Thomson, and Alexander Thomson, Jun. merchants, both of this city, Hollingshead, Pearce, Ryers, Case, Arnold, Hickcox and lady, Captain Robinson, Mr. Myers, Mr. Renaud, Mrs. Trout, and one hand.

We yesterday viewed in company with the Coroner, the dead and the dying—and such a heart rending spectacle we never before witnessed. The scales of the dead were deep, and notwithstanding their cloths, they extended over the whole body. But the survivors presented pictures of unutterable suffering. If prepared for that event, how well might they have envied those whose death had suddenly relieved them from bodily anguish.

This boat, it must be noted, was one of those "Infernal Machines" constructed with iron boilers, upon the high pressure principle; and according to the testimony was not running so rapidly at the time of the explosion, as she had been a few minutes before. It is said the piston rod was making only 11 strokes a minute, while her usual gauge is 22.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

By a passenger on board the Mexican, from Alvarado, the keeper of the Merchant's Coffee House, Philadelphia, has been furnished with the following article of news from Mexico.

Early in the month of April, the Mexican Congress appointed a committee of their own body, consisting of eight members who were directed forthwith to report the best means of preserving the public tranquillity of the nation. They brought in a unanimous report in which, after acknowledging the entire want of moral strength and energy on the part of government, as at present organized; and the loss of confidence on the part of the provincial authorities; and the public generally, they proposed as a remedy from the existing evils, that the supreme executive power consisting of three, should appoint one of their own body, who should be styled "Supreme Director of the Mexican Republic" in whom should be given the power to appoint a Vice Director, to act in all cases of inability (if the Dictator) and who shall also be commander in chief of the military forces of the country. To transfer the government and Congress from the Capital to any other part of the Country.—To appoint military commanders in any of the Provinces, and dispose of the military power generally.—To obtain money on the credit of the nation.—To resist at pleasure the acts of the Provincial Legislature.—To solicit foreign aid if necessary.—To expel foreigners who have not been naturalized, and finally to annul any of the acts of Congress, whenever they shall interfere with his measures &c. Which report, as is stated by private letters, was immediately discussed in secret session, and passed by a majority of that body.

Phil. Gazette.

American Bible Society.—The anniversary of this excellent institution was celebrated in New-York the 13th inst. with increased splendor and interest. During the eight years of the existence of the Society it has circulated no less than 433,352 Bibles, Testaments or parts of the latter. This fact speaks its best eulogium. The Auxiliary Societies amount to 407.

Counterfeiters.—A gang of counterfeiters, consisting of five men and two women, were arrested at New York Saturday evening last, and after an examination committed to prison.

THE HERALD.

Newport,
Saturday, May 22, 1824.

TARIFF BILL.

By our Congressional journal it will be seen, that the Tariff Bill has been sent to the Senate, the House having agreed to all the more important amendments in the Senate, except at striking out the duty of 4-1-2 on cotton bagging, which the House have restored. A letter from Washington says, "which House will the way is uncertain, but the bill will doubtless become a law."

The National Intelligencer of Monday last, says,—"The amendments of the Senate to the Tariff Bill, have been sent upon in the House with unusual promptitude and industry. They were all agreed to. The exceptions again be presented to the Senate today. We have now little doubt that this bill will become a law. We do not think that the two Houses will be disposed to suffer a bill so long as the principle of which has been received the sanction of both Houses, be lost by obstinate adherence to, or instance of, any one or two of the numerous items of which the bill is made up."

CONGRESS.

It is expected that Congress will adjourn in the course of next week.—The National Intelligencer of Monday last, says,—"Whether the Tariff Bill or not, there is so strong a disposition prevailing to adjourn, that we do not expect the Session to continue longer than the 25th or 26th of the present month."

FROM WASHINGTON, MAY 14.
"We had a warm discussion yesterday, on the accounts of the late superintendent of lots and public buildings in Washington. Gen. Cocke dragged the private transactions of the President before the House, and received stigmata from all quarters. It is not probable the House will rise before Wednesday week."
N. Y. Com. Adver.

MR. CRAWFORD.

The National Intelligencer of Saturday last contains Mr. CRAWFORD's communication to the Committee of Investigation, on the charges preferred against him by Mr. Edwards.—Mr. Crawford's letter has been laid before the House; and the Intelligencer adds, it is said to be a most triumphant vindication of him from the shadows of imputations conjured up against him. The letter occupies nine columns of the Intelligencer. Mr. Randolph it is said, deems it a masterly performance, and a complete refutation of the charges against Mr. Crawford.

STEAM ENGINE.

We learn that Mr. JOHN BARCOCK, of Portsmouth, (on this Island) has obtained a Patent for his invention in the method of generating Steam of high temperature, without the use of a boiler.

MR. RANDOLPH.

The Hon. John Randolph arrived at New-York on Saturday last, and sailed the next day in the packet ship Nestor, for Liverpool.—The Baltimore Patriot says, "his very odd appearance caused a crowd of people upon the wharf, to see him off. His dress, a little creased, blue coat, white vest, drab breeches, long yellow top boots and gaiters."

General Dearborn, American Minister at the Court of Lisbon, has obtained permission of the President to return to the United States, where he will probably arrive early in the ensuing autumn.

Hon. Timothy Pickens, has issued at Salem, a pamphlet entitled "A Review of the Correspondence between the Hon. John Adams, and the late Wm. Cunningham, Esq."

A bill has passed the House of Assembly of Connecticut, for the choice of Electors by a general ticket.

On the 4th of April, part of the town of Tampico was destroyed by fire, caused by design, which created considerable confusion among the inhabitants.—The loss was not very great.

FROM GIBRALTAR.

By the arrival of the brig Cyprus, Capt. Chaddock, at Boston, we learn that a French frigate arrived at Gibraltar on the 2d of April, from Algiers, with all the Spanish prisoners taken by the Algerines, the difference between the Spaniards and Algerines having been settled. The Algerines had taken all their vessels of any consequence into shoal water and stripped them.

POWDER-MILL EXPLOSIONS.

On the 30th of April last the Powder Mills of Messrs. Spencer, Cooper & Co., near Lexington, (K. M.) were blown to atoms, by which a negro was killed, and two others severely wounded. About 1000 lbs. of powder, which was in the dry house, exploded, and every thing near and about the mills was torn to pieces. The explosion was heard, and the shock it produced felt, at from 7 to 8 miles distance. This is said to have been the second accident of the kind at the same establishment within the last twelve months.

At Westfield, (Mass.) on the 11th inst. another powder mill, shared a similar fate, and one man named Luman Campbell, lately from New-York who was at work on the premises, was so much injured that he died the following morning. He was thrown into a pond, his clothes torn completely from him; having recovered a little he walked out of the water, but he was so dreadfully burnt, that nothing could preserve his life. Only 15 casks of powder were in the mill, and Mr. C. who retained his reason till within a few minutes of his exit, could not account for the accident.

CANAL COMMERCE.

There arrived at Albany during the last week fifty seven boats with 4808 barrels of flour and other produce, and there cleared in the same week one hundred and eight boats with 1588 tons of merchandize, besides iron castings, &c. In consequence of the great increase of trade, the merchants at Albany are about to establish an Exchange, for purpose of facilitating business between the buyer and seller.

Illinois.—Letters from Illinois state that party spirit runs very high in that state, with respect to a Convention for the purpose of introducing slavery.—It is said that both parties are equally confident of success. Such is the feeling, that the ordinary intercourse between families who are divided upon this question, is interrupted.

Illinois Justices.—It has lately been stated that every fourth man in Vermont is a Justice of the Peace. A letter from Illinois says they far outstrip their Vermont friends in the number of Peace makers. The last Legislature appointed sixteen Justices of the Peace for one county, which, with those previously in commission make, on an average, one justice of the peace to every eighteen persons, over the age of 21 years.

Methodists.—The meeting of the Clergy of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in General Conference, in Baltimore, is spoken of as highly respectable, and their proceedings as evidence of a state of perfection in doctrine and discipline. Two representatives from the British Conference, the Rev. Richard Reece and John Hannah, had arrived and been introduced to the episcopacy, and brought letters containing expressions of the affectionate regard which the British Conference feel towards their younger brethren in America. The Conference has organized ten committees to report on Episcopacy; on Itinerancy; on the Boundaries of Conferences; on the Book Concern; on the local Ministry; on Education; on the Churches and Parsonage Houses; on Missions; on Revivals; and on Slavery, and the rights of colored people belonging to the connexion.

Patronage.—Gov. Shultze, of Pennsylvania, seems determined like an able general, to strengthen himself with a strong corps of office-holders. One of the Philadelphia papers remarks, that if he proceeds as he has thus far gone on, in the appointment of justices, they may soon hope to see every third man, black and white—and perhaps every man, and why not every woman too, a justice of the peace.

POETRY.

FROM THE VILLAGE RECORD.

WOMAN.

SYLPH of the blue and beaming eye!
The muse's fondest wreaths are thine.
The youthful heart beats warm and high,
And joys to own the power divine!
Thou sunnest on the flowing path
Of youth, and all is pleasure there—
Thou soothest man when'er he hath
An eye of gloom—a brow of care!—

To youth thou art the early morn
With "light and melody and song,"
To beam around each scene adorn,
And swiftly speed his time along—
To man, thou art the gift of Heaven,
A boon from regions bright above—
His lot is dark, had not been given
To him the light of woman's love!

When o'er his dark'ning brow, the storm
Is gathering in its pow'r and might,
The radiant beam of woman's form
Shines thro' the cloud, and all is light;
When dire disease prepared her wrath
To pour in terror from above,
Now gleams upon his gloomy path,
The glowing light of woman's love!

When all around is clear and bright,
And pleasure lends her fairest charm,
And man, enraptured with delight,
Feels as he views his bosom warm—
Why glows his breast with joy profuse,
And all his deeds his rap are prove?
It is because the scene he views
Thro' the bright rays of woman's love!

Oh! woman! thine is still the power
Dedicated to all but only thee,
To chase away the clouds that low'r
To harass life eventful sea,
Thou light of man!—his only joy
Beneath a wide and boundless sky!
Long shall thy praise his tongue employ
Sylph of the blue and beaming eye!
